MEETING TURNS INTO A FRACAS

Shelby County Delegation Demands Passage of Resolutions at District Road Gathering.

AND THEY ARE ADOPTED, TOO

They Disapprove of State Highway Commission and Urge Repeal of 3-Mile Road Law.

TAKE FLING AT AUTO TAX LAW

Would Have Money Distributed by Counties—Commission Finally Gets in a Few Words.

The people of the Sixth District let the State Highway Commission, appointed by Governor Ralston to investigate and report on road conditions and road laws in Indiana, know in no uncertain terms what they want regarding changes in road law and taxes, when the meeting was held this afternoon in the assembly room of the court house.

The meeting was a stormy one, the Shelby county delegation taking an active part in the discussion. Shelby county let it be known right at the start that they came here to tell the commission what they thought and not to hear what the commission wanted and advised. A resolution involving three important things was passed at the meeting after a debate lasting an hour.

The resolution called for the repeal of the three-mile-road law; opposed the passage of a law creating a state highway commission and favored the amendment of the present automobile license tax law so that each county would receive directly all the money paid in licenses instead of the state collecting and distributing it. The state highway commission desired first to present its side to the meeting in order to explain the purpose but the resolution went through first, after several speeches.

The resolutions were in three parts and were as follows:

Resolved, That the taxpayers of this district generally, and especially the farmers of said district, are opposed to the adoption by the general assembly of this state of legislation providing for a state highway commission, or for state control or directly or supervision in any form of building or maintenance and repair of the highways in said district and we request our State Senators and Representatives from this district to vote against and use every legitimate effort to defeat such legislation that may be proposed by bills for that purpose in the next General Assembly.

"Resolved, further, That we request our State Senator and Representative to introduce a bill in both houses of the General Assembly, to convene in January, next, for the repeal of the act, now a part of the statute law of Indiana, which is commonly called and known as the three mile road law."

Resolved, That we ask our state senators and representatives to vote for the repeal of the present automobile tax law in which the state receives a benefit. We believe that the money thus obtained by every county should be put in the roads in the county from which the money is collected.

The resolution was adopted without a dissenting vote. Albert Wray of Shelbyville took a leading part and introduced the resolution. Mem-

This is a subject that will interest all and an invitation is given not only to the parents having children in the high school, but to all patrons of the city schools and to the public in general. The new building now being erected in this city will enable the school authorities to carry into effect some of the reforms presented in the Gary system.

WIDOW OF SAMUEL CLIFTON IS DEAD

Rachel Clifton, Age 85, Expires Rather Suddenly Because Condition Not Thought Serious.

SHE LEAVES FIVE CHILDREN

Mrs. Rachel Clifton, 85 years old, widow of the late Samuel Clifton, died Saturday evening at six o'clock at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Isaac N. Stevens, near Occident. Mrs. Clifton had been ill for some time suffering from a complication of diseases but her death was rather sudden as she was not considered in a serious condition. Her husband had been dead about two years and she had made her home with her daughter for some time.

Besides Mrs. Stevens she is survived by four other children, Mrs. Alva Ward, Mrs. Robert Jarrett, Jacob and Charles Clifton. The funeral services will be conducted Tuesday morning at ten-thirty o'clock at the Main Street Christian church by Rev. C. M. Yocum. Burial will take place in East Hill cemetery.

A marriage license was issued late Saturday afternoon to Claude Adams and Edna Miller.

RECORD FOR DAY SET FOR THE FUND

Eighteen Barrels of Flour Are Reported Today, Sending Total Above a Hundred.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS HELP MUCH

Corn Shredders "Pass Hat" and Raise Enough Money to Buy a Barrel of Flour For Belgians.

New records were established in the Republican's Belgian relief fund today when eighteen barrels of flour were contributed. Sixteen barrels came in from one and two-barrel contributions. C. G. Clark & Sons added one when another twenty-five barrel lot was reached and another was added from cash contributions under a dollar.

There was a balance Saturday in cash of $4.25 and since the report Saturday $3.65 has been sent in three contributions. This makes the eighteenth barrel of flour and a cash balance of $2.90. There are a hundred and five barrels in the fund now.

The Sunday schools and churches made themselves felt over Sunday. Their activity accounts for the largest single day contribution since the fund was opened.

The first contribution to report today was a barrel from a party of farmers. They were shredding corn at Hal Green's farm north of Rushville Saturday when one suggested that they should help the Belgian relief fund along. The result was that one man proposed they each give a dollar and make up enough to buy a barrel of flour. Hal Green brought the five dollars to the Republican office Saturday evening. The men who contributed the barrel were Tom Mills, Will Winship, Fred Maple, Elsworth Kiser and Hal Green.

The employees of the Innis-Pearce furniture factory were next to report Saturday that they had raised ten dollars to help feed the starving Belgians this winter. Then came the Little Flatrock Christian Sunday school with a contribution of ten dollars enough to add two more barrels to the fund.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Frazee reported a barrel this morning and the Loyal Woman's class of the Main Street Christian Sunday school announced this morning that they had raised enough yesterday to buy a barrel of flour. The orchestra of the St. Paul's M. E. Sunday school yesterday "passed the hat" and procured enough among their members to buy a barrel. J. H. Scholl's class of the St. Paul's M. E. Sunday school also reported a barrel donated today. James Lock and family gave a barrel and the Rev. C. M. Yocum's class of the Main Street Christian Sunday school added another. St. Mary's school contributed money to buy a barrel and the Altar Society of St. Mary's church did likewise. Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Trabue were the last ones to report the gift of a barrel today. Mr. and Mrs. George Thomas gave a barrel earlier in the day and H. S. Carney and sons gave five bushels of wheat Saturday.

DAN ELLIOTT ARRESTED.

Dan Elliott was arrested yesterday by Constable McAllister, on a charge of beating a board bill filed by Mrs. Nora Ross, who manages the Main Street House here. Mrs. Ross alleges that Elliott owes her $38 and Elliott says this is exactly $32 too much. He was to be arraigned before Squire Kratzer this afternoon.

TO START AFTER THANKSGIVING

Sale of Red Cross Christmas Seals Will Begin Here Directly After Turkey Day.

NEW RECORD EXPECTED HERE

Per Cent Remaining in County Used to Support Visiting Nurse—Schools Helping.

Red Cross Christmas seals will go on sale in Rushville immediately after Thanksgiving, Friday. The members of the Psi Iota Xi sorority here will be in charge of the sales and elsewhere in the county the public schools are the agency to dispose of the stickers. Seals were placed in the hands of the school principals here Saturday and are now being sold.

Officers of the Rush County Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis are expecting Rush county to come to the front this year and make a better showing than ever before. The fact that the Rush county society is supporting a visiting nurse should be an added incentive to buy seals this year because the per cent. of the sales remaining in this county are used to pay the expenses of the visiting nurse.

Persons who have heard of the work of the visiting nurse and who know from actual experience what she has been accomplishing here are all active boosters for the Rush county society.

The sale of Seals has been started in many other counties of the state but it has always been the policy of the Rush county society to wait until after Thanksgiving because then people are not absorbed with preparations for Turkey day but are beginning to think of Christmas, to which the sale of seals is closely related.

The Rush county society has found the people of the county can be reached through the public schools better than through any other agency. School teachers always take hold of the project with great enthusiasm and sell as many seals as possible.

All the horrors of war, the killed, the wounded, the wrecked homes, the weeping orphans and widows, the ghastly battle scenes, the enormous money loss, are to be found right here in Indiana, according to a statement issued by members of the State Red Cross Seals Commission. Startling estimates on the number of killed and wounded on the number crippled for life and the number of widows and orphans left dependent in Indiana because of the ravages of the "white plague" have been issued from the state headquarters, 203 Public Savings Insurance building, Indianapolis.

Boiled down for short reading by busy people, the list reads as follows:

Killed during 1913.....	4,108
Total killed since 1908....	21,575
Crippled by bone tuberculosis.....	8,763
Victims now living in Ind....	36,700

No one was killed or injured. The principal damage done was here in Gary. Hundreds of plate glass windows were broken.

"INFANT" DOLLAR MUST NOT BE HELD

Object is to Show Just How Much Bill Will Accomplish in Community When Kept at Home.

PERSONS URGED TO SPEND IT

The "infant" dollar bill which was started last Wednesday on a mission of happiness to see how many times it would be spent here at home before December 23 has passed through only a few hands, it was learned today, due to the fact that some of the persons receiving it had not spent the dollar as soon as they got it. It is urged that persons receiving the dollar should spend it as soon as possible so that this "baby" dollar can have an opportunity to show just what it can do. It should be given a chance to prove its worth in the community.

The idea in starting the dollar on its rounds about the city was to show just how much a dollar could accomplish in this community how many hands it passed through, how many things it bought and how many bills it paid. The object lesson will be that the dollar, had it been sent away from home, would have been sent away from home, would have been.

DIVORCE GRANTED TODAY

A divorce was granted this afternoon to Mrs. Mary Amos-Root from Lawrence Root by Judge Megee in the circuit court and her maiden name, Mary Amos, was restored. The question of alimony was dropped. The defendant was represented by an attorney, John H. Kiplinger, but did not contest the suit. Watson, Titsworth and Green were attorneys for the plaintiff.

He was fined one dollar and costs by Mayor Bebout this morning. Selm was on his way out of the city when caught. He said that he obtained the "booze" in Connersville.

RELEASED AND REARRESTED

Noble McIntyre, age 17 years, a former inmate of the Orphan's Home at Knightstown, who was released a few days ago by Judge Jackson, of Henry county, where he was charged with forgery, has been re-arrested on a charge of stealing a horse and buggy belonging to Eugene Bailey, a colored man.

ENTERS A PLEA OF NOT GUILTY

F. L. Catt of Carthage to be Arraigned in Newcastle For Speeding Next Monday.

A CASH BOND OF 50 DOLLARS

His Automobile Strikes Lee Stephens and Daughter—Stephens May Have a Fractured Skull.

(By United Press.)

Newcastle, Ind., Nov. 23.—F. L. Catt, a civil engineer of Carthage, Rush county, entered a plea of not guilty to a charge of speeding here today and gave a cash bond for $50 pending his appearance in court next Monday. The proceedings were the result of an accident here Saturday afternoon when Catt's automobile ran into one driven by Lee Stephens, of Sulphur Springs, Henry county. Stephens' daughter, Lulu, age 14, also rode in the car.

Mr. Stephens was seriously hurt. It was stated that he might be suffering with a fractured skull.

The Newcastle Courier has the following concerning the accident:

According to Catt's story, as told to Mayor Watkins in police headquarters Saturday afternoon, he was driving west on Broad street and just before he came to Sixth street he saw Stephens start to cross the street. Catt was in an Overland touring car and Stephens in a one-seated Maxwell. The heavier machine skidded when Catt attempted to stop it, and the light machine was hit with heavy force. Stephens was knocked unconscious and suffered severe bruises in addition to being cut severely about the head. His daughter received a badly bruised left hand and is suffering from the shock. According to Stephens two bones in the girls hand are broken.

Dr. O. J. Gronendyke, who attended Stephens, told Mayor Watkins that he was badly hurt, but the injured man was able to walk with a little assistance to police headquarters. He said he remembered nothing after he started to cross Broad street from North Sixth street.

In the car with F. L. Catt was his father, W. Catt, C. Plamer and J. H. Siler, all of Carthage. Witnesses reported to the police that Catt was driving at a rate of between forty-five and fifty miles an hour. One of these was W. O. Newton.

Catt claims that he was driving

The Merchant Who Anticipates

To anticipate is to think and to act ahead.

It is not only looking to the future—it is acting before the future happens.

The clever retailer is the one who anticipates the wants of the consumer.

In this city there are thousands of consumer wants created by advertising in these columns.

On the shelves of every store are products that will fill these wants.

To bring the consumer and his wants together, the merchant who anticipates new business ducts advertised in the newspapers a special eye on the proper. He keeps these articles out in the light where the consumer who has been influenced by the advertising will see them.

Anticipation is a good word in the making of customers.

bers of the commission desired first to tell the purpose of the commission, but the meeting seemed to think that everyone knew this and proceeded to discuss the questions involved in the resolution. Mr. Wray told the commission that he would rather hear what the taxpayers of this district thought about road questions than what the commission had to say.

Shelby county fairly railroaded the resolution through and Addison C Harris, chairman of the commission, had a hard time to get a hearing. He stated the commission was serving without pay and simply wanted to see what the people wanted, in view of reporting to the governor. Mr. Harris talked on the three-mile road law and desired to know what the people intended using in place of this law if it were repealed.

"We should have some system in our road building," said Mr. Harris. "A great fault of today is that the roads are built under dishonest men."

Mr. Harris resented the reception given by the Shelby county crowd and stated that they should not have been hostile to the commission because the commission had no ax to grind.

Wray, who is a staunch Shelby county Democrat, replied to Harris and stated that the people of the state wanted the three-mile law wiped off the books and that in place of this they would go back to the acts of 1905 in which the proposition of building a township road could be left to the people for a vote. He said that now fifty people could slip in and petition for a road and that all would have to pay for it. Mr. Wray declared that the people wanted local self-government and did not demand any state commission to tell them how to run their business and build their roads.

"If we cannot find competent officials to build our roads in our own counties then we had better close up shop," declared Mr. Wray.

He declared that instead of having a state highway superintendent and a commission on a high salary, we had better take that money and put it in our roads.

The section of the resolutions were adopted one at a time. The meeting developed into a fight between the Shelby county delegation and the commission and the rest of the audience took sides with the Shelby county men.

Republicans Are Busy

There is now practically nothing left of the Progressive party organization in Marion county. The latest Progressive ward committeemen in the city of Indianapolis to resign and formally return to the Republican party are John F. Walker and Samuel K. Joseph, who was a Progressive candidate for the legislature in 1912. Both were numbered among campaigns of 1912, 1913 and 1914.

Approximately three fourths of the Progressive precinct committeemen in Marion county have publicly announced since election that they are now Republicans.

The Tippecanoe Republican Club will file articles of incorporation with the secretary of state within a short time. When the membership roll was opened at a recent meeting of the new organization 576 voters were enrolled as voters within a very short time.

The Republicans of Jefferson county made a good start at the recent election. Plans are under way for the organization of a Republican club that will include every voting precinct in the county in its membership.

The word "Progressive" has disappeared from the masthead of the Middlebury (Ind.) Independent since election. In the last issue of his paper the publisher advertised "a pair of lovely Bull Moose horns for sale."

The new Lake County Republican club will be known as the Harrison Club. The organization intends to begin, at once, making plans for the 1915 campaign.

The Republicans of Howard county are making plans for the organization of a militant Republican club.

Republicans of the eighth district will enjoy a banquet and love feast at Muncie on the evening of Dec. 4.

The Republicans in Indiana are alive.

Eugenic Marriages

Will insure to this country a healthier and more intelligent "family of the future" and many a woman, obviously unfit for marriage has had her health restored by the timely use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the most successful remedy for female ills the world has ever known. Enormous quantities of roots and herbs are used annually in making this good old-fashioned remedy and no woman who suffers from female ills should lose hope until she has tried it.

Health--How to Preserve It
Disease--How to Prevent ItPrepared for the United Press by Dr. J. N. Hurty
State Health Commissioner

(Dr. Hurty will answer questions on prevention of disease, hygiene and sanitation. Questions requiring a personal answer cannot be considered. To avoid delay, address all questions direct to the UNITED PRESS ASSOCIATIONS, 36½ West Washington St., Indianapolis. Questions may be sent to THE DAILY REPUBLICAN if preferred.)

Sid writes: "What means can I use other than will power, which is not sufficient in my case, to stop using cigarettes? They make me very nervous."

Reply--If you have not will power enough and sufficient force of character to enable you to stop using cigarettes you are lost. You are lost also in more ways than one. I advise you to summon all your resolutions, and simply quit your bad habits. Don't think there is any drug or medicine to take the place of the cigarettes. Cigarette smoking is a bad habit, injurious to your nerves and will retard you in your life work.

Connors writes--"I have a severe pain in my right lung well up on the chest. It leaves for a while and then returns remaining for a few seconds. Is this a sign of tuberculosis?"

Reply--The pain in your right lung may be due to numerous causes. You should have a skilled doctor go over your chest and study other symptoms which go with the pain in your right lung. He then will be able to make a diagnosis. You may have tuberculosis.

M. M. T. Danville writes--"I actually go hungry because of an acid stomach. I do not use tea or coffee. Can you give me a relief? I have a little girl ten years old who snuffs back out of her nose and spits a mucus. What can be done for her?"

Reply--You must not depend upon medicines to cure you but rather better diet. You have other symptoms besides those you mentioned and they are very important to enable a doctor to make a diagnosis. You do well to leave coffee and tea alone. I advise you to consult a good doctor. It would be foolish for me to prescribe a remedy without carefully making an examination and a diagnosis.

In regard to your little girl. I think she has nasal Catarrh. If she has, it will take long persistent treatment by a good "nose specialist" to cure her. She probably has recently had measles, scarlet fever or some other so called "Child's Disease." Catarrh frequently follows such diseases.

Treat Children's Colds Externally

Don't dose delicate little stomachs with harmful internal medicines. Vick's "Vap-O-Rub" Croup and Pneumonia Salve is applied externally over the throat and chest. The body heat releases soothing antiseptic vapors that are inhaled all night long, loosening the tough phlegm and opening up the air passages. For all inflammation of the air passages from head colds and catarrh, down to bronchitis and incipient pneumonia, Vick's is quicker than internal medicines. Can be used freely with perfect safety on the smallest child. At druggists—25c, 50c, and $1.00.

THE CALL TO ARMS

Mobilizing a Monster Army When War Is Declared.

HOW IT IS DONE IN GERMANY.

Rapidity With Which the Reservist Responds to the Summons and Is Equipped For Action—Concentrating the Troops at the Seat of War.

Putting a modern army like that of Germany in the field involves two separate processes, mobilization and concentration. Mobilization consists not only in fitting out the men already with the colors, or the standing army, but more particularly of re-enlisting and equipping the additional men that are necessary to bring the standing army to war strength, which is, roughly speaking, about twice its peace strength.

The details of mobilization are very simple. Every reservist or landwehr man has a soldier's pocketbook containing explicit instructions as to what he has to do when called to the colors. He is moreover practiced in doing it at maneuvers in time of peace. Various means are employed for transmitting the call to individual men, but it is usually spread by rumor or by the press and anticipated in execution.

The young clerk, artisan, student or teacher drops his vocation and betakes himself by a prescribed route to the depot, where he is furnished a brand new uniform and set of equipments. Here he has perhaps a few hours in which to renew his military acquaintanceship and to linger with his civilian friends, his parents, brothers, sisters or sweetheart, if any of them have followed or joined him there. As a reservist of the first class he is not likely to have a wife.

The mobilization being completed, the next step is the concentration. The assembly is sounded, the roll called—the last time on that ground for many a loyal name—the battalion is formed. It breaks into column and, following the band to the strains of some foreign equivalent of "The Girl I Left Behind Me," escorted by throngs of youths and maidens, cheered and saluted with voice, flags and handkerchiefs from doorsteps, windows and housetops, tramps impressively—aye, how impressively to many a heavy hearted witness—through the town or city to the railway station.

A few minutes for parting words, looks, embraces, and the embarkation begins. In perhaps twenty minutes more it is completed, the interval between trains is attained, a whistle, the train moves, is off, is out of sight.

This process is repeated until the whole field army is under way or at its destination. The unit of embarkation is what one engine will draw, which, expressed in infantry, is about a thousand men. The distance between trains that is necessary to safety and efficiency may be taken as ten minutes.

Under favorable conditions trains follow one another at this interval, with only necessary halts for refreshment and rest or exercise. The officers and some of the men ride in passenger coaches. The rest have to put up with improvised seats in freight cars—board benches built across the cars without backs.

Both the point of embarkation and the zone of concentration must be at a safe distance within one's own territory and protected by troops which in peace as well as in war are on the frontier in full war strength. These are called covering troops.

At the end of the railway journey comes the debarkation. If this does not take place as fast as the trains arrive—and it is not likely to when they follow one another at intervals of ten minutes—allowance must be made for it in calculating the number of trains to be dispatched per line of railroad per day, or the rate of concentration. On debarking the troops, or many of them, are stiff and sore from long cramping on a hard seat and in poor condition for marching. So only after a rest are they moved by short marches into the zone of concentration. It is apparent from these general considerations that the railroads are factors of capital importance in seeking the advantage of the initiative, of determining the general course of operations, for the enemy as well as for oneself. To secure and to keep this advantage both in strategy and in tactics has long been a first principle of good generalship.—Major John Bigelow, U. S. A., Retired, in Century.

Just What She Wanted.

Mr. Sempel—Will you be mine, darling? Miss Strongmind—You must first ask papa's consent. Harold. Mr. Sempel—But—but I dread to do it. I am extremely nervous and, so to speak, so easily sat upon that—Miss Strongmind (hurriedly)—I'll be yours, Harold. Never mind about papa.—Stray Stories.

Load né a Camel.

A camel is never relieved of its load from the beginning of the journey to its end. It eats, walks and sleeps under its burden, often for weeks at a time. The training of a camel is no easy matter, as it takes about three years to teach it to bend its knees in order to be loaded and unloaded.

PRINCETON MAY MAKE CHANGE

Likely That Permanent Coach Idea
May be Adopted Next Year by

SUCCESSFUL OTHER PLACES

Old Plan of New Man Every Few Years Results in Poor Showing
While Material is Plentiful

BY HAL SHERIDAN
(Written for United Press.)
New York, Nov. 23.—There is every reason to believe that Princeton will next year adopt the permanent football coach idea, which has been so eminently successful at Harvard under Haughton, and in the majority of the colleges through out the Middle West.

Princeton, with some of the best all around material that Nassau has had to work on in years, this year literally fozzled away her opportunities. There was Old Man Opportunity fairly begging to be taken without full authority to carry out their programs told in the poor showing during the 1914 season.

Of course, Percy Haughton is a wizard. He is as good as Yost or Stagg ever was. But he couldn't have done what he has accomplished in a year nor in two years. And he had to have complete charge in his department. Yale has started right it seems, in employing Hinkey, who probably will be given carte blanche as long as he wants the job of putting the winning wallop, smash and punch into Yale's gridiron warriors.

not more than fourteen miles an hour as he said he had set the emergency brakes as he started down the hill on Broad street. He asked Mayor Watkins if the matter could not be settled this afternoon but the mayor told him he would have to return Monday.

The citizens on West Broad street have endured the speed maniacs for many months and have made many complaints to the police of the machines being allowed to run at such a high rate of speed. All of the witnesses claim that the heavier car was running between thirty-five and fifty miles an hour. Stephens said he was running six miles an hour. "I had just told my daughter that it was a dangerous crossing when the accident occurred. I remember nothing after that," he said later when being questioned.

Says Rev. A. D. Batchelor.

"CONSCIENCE AND CIVICS"

Rev. C. M. Yocum Says Joy is a Lubricant Which Reduces the Friction of Life.

The Rev. A. D. Batchelor preached a sermon on "Conscience and Civics" at the St. Paul's M. E. church last night, declaring that whatever brings about better laws ministers to God's cause in this world. The Rev. C. M. Yocum, at the morning service at the Main Street Christian church, pointed out the true spirit of praise. Excerpts of the sermons follow:

Main Street Christian

At the Main Street Christian church the Rev. C. M. Yocum took for his text yesterday morning Gen. 8:20-21, "And Noah built an altar and offered burnt offerings. And the Lord smelled a sweet savour," and Psalm 107:31 "Oh, that men would praise the Lord." He said in part: "Noah's first act after leaving the ark was to build an altar and offer sacrifices of thanksgiving unto God. And the thing was pleasing to Jehovah. David expressed it as the burning desire of his heart that men would praise the Lord. If Noah and David found occasion for praise surely our reasons for thanksgiving are multiplied. Oh that men would praise the Lord for His goodness, eternal and universal and for His wonderful works, marvelous beyond comprehension to the children of men.

God approved Noah's offering; he was pleased with his spirit. So is He pleased when we praise Him today. But the true value of praise is subjective. Its benefits enure to him who praises. Praise primarily means irradiation and the true ambition of him who praises is to reflect the glory of the Sun of Righteousness. A window lets light in, hence benefits the room but it does not benefit the sun. So praise profits the worshipper rather than the one worshipped.

The consciousness of dependance upon God comes with praise hence the worshipper is put in the true line of attainment. When man knows the source of goodness the more easily does he become good.

Praise is communion with God and if it is uplifting to sit in the presence of God. To be near Him is to become like Him.

The spirit of praise is the spirit of rejoicing and he who sings at his task does more than does he who complains. Joy is a lubricant which reduces the friction of life to a place where progress is possible. The other day I saw a placard hanging in a machine shop, "Pay double wages to him who sings at his task."

Praise puts us into right relationship with our brothers. One cannot pass directly from the spirit of praise to the spirit of contention. I once saw a fiery debate stopped abruptly by some one starting to sing "Praise God from whom all blessings flow."

Praise to God deepens inspiration and elevates aspiration. George Innis arose from a prayer of thanksgiving to offer himself wholly to the service of God.

We should make known our appreciation with our lips.

"If you hear a kind word spoken Of some worthy soul you know, It may fill his heart with gladness If you only tell him so.

We should likewise praise with our lives. To our gracious "Thank you" should be added a life of gratitude. May our lives prove psalms of gratitude and hymns of praise continually. "Oh, that men would praise the Lord for his goodness and for his wonderful works to the children of men."

St. Paul's M. E.

At St. Paul's church last night the Rev. A. D. Batchelor preached a sermon on "Conscience and Civics." The text was Rom. 13:5 "Wherefore ye must needs be in subjection, not only because of the wrath but also for conscience sake." He said, in introducing his subject, that the Thanksgiving holiday brought the nation before our minds, and that it was difficult for the Christian to think of the nation apart from God.

He continued: Paul never read God out of the nation. In the chapter before us he thought of the nation as expressing God's will toward the world. For the system of civil government in curbing the riotous and unruly fulfilled a righteous purpose. Whatever did this, also helped to work out God purposes in the world. He tells his readers, therefore, that the law and the officer are "God's ministers." For this reason the Christian is to be obedient. He is also to pay his taxes which are designated too as "ministers of God's service." For these support the state in its civil operations and make possible the execution of the divine plan of the social peace.

Paul also connects the conscience with the civil code. We are to obey the law not because we fear the penalty but for "conscience sake." The conscience is also of divine appointment. It is the law of God written on the heart. It is greater than a civil code, which is a copy of the conscience. The citizen with a Christian conscience would keep the law if there was no outward statute. He does not need a law to forbid him to steal or murder, for it is not in his heart to do these things.

The great province of christianity is to create a new heart, a right disposition, a true conscience. It places every man above the law, so that he lives by conscience and not by outward restraint. But all men cannot be persuaded to have a new heart. Has christianity, therefore no province outside of moral persuasion? Has it no duty toward the civil law which was made to be a terror to the evil doers? The conscience of the Christian tells him that he must not only obey the law, but that he must uphold its majesty and power by insisting on its enforcement and by promoting new moral legislation. An Athenian in praising a public functionary said, that every one either applauded him or left him without censure. To this a philosopher replied, "How seldom he must have done his duty." No official can do his duty and have the good-will of the unruly. For the law, Paul tells us is a "terror to evil doers." If the law is God's minister, the Christian has a right to insist upon its enforcement that it may minister vigorously to the righteousness of God in the world. Also whatever brings about better laws ministers to God's cause in the world. If the system of civil government is of God's appointment it is the Christian's duty to make it as powerful a moral force as possible. This can only be done by righteous legislation. In his Politics Aristotle said, "The virtue of a good man and a citizen of the best state are identical." He who is virtuous in his life, righteous in his heart is within his rights when he desires his conscience incorporated in the civil code. This gives the moral law a potent expression and makes the state a minister of God in the world.

HEADS OF NATIONS

Power of Our President Versus
That of Royal Rulers.

THE EXERCISE OF THE VETO.

A Right Which May Be Freely Used by
Our Chief Executive, but Which Might Shake the Throne of the Monarch Who Dared Assert It.

It has been said that the president of the United States has more real power than most monarchs of Europe. I do not know that I am able to institute an intelligent comparison, because to do that one ought to be quite familiar with the extent of the royal or imperial power to be measured with that of our president, and I have not sufficient knowledge on the subject.

I know something with respect to the real governing power of the king of England, and except in an indirect way the president's power far exceeds that of King George, and I think it is very considerably more than that of the president of France. When, however, one examines the imperial power in governments like Germany, Austria, Italy and Spain the question is much more difficult, and I presume no one would say that the president's power is equal to that of the czar of Russia.

With us a president is elected for four years, and nothing can get him out of office except his death or his resignation—which never comes—or his impeachment. The certainty of his tenure for four years makes our executive administration a little more rigid and less subject to quick changes of public opinion than in the parliamentary countries. I am inclined to think that our system is a good thing for our country, however much parliamentary government may suit the countries where it is in use.

Of course it has this advantage: In a parliamentary government there is a union between the executive and the legislative branches, and they therefore work together, because those who constitute the executive lead and direct the legislation, whereas in the separation of the great branches of the government with us the president represents the executive, congress the legislative and the courts the judicial branch, and the plan of the men who framed the constitution was to preserve these branches separately.

The president is able to recommend legislation to congress, and he may go in person to argue the wisdom of it if he chooses. Mr. Wilson restored an old custom of that sort, which was abandoned by President Jefferson, and I think he was right in doing so. It emphasizes the president's recommendations and focuses the eyes of the people on that which he regards as important to the public welfare, and it puts a greater responsibility on congress to give attention to his suggestions.

The British constitution gives the power of veto to the king, but it has not been exercised for more than two centuries, and were it attempted it would shake the throne. The exercise of the president's veto always rouses eloquence on the part of those who are much disappointed at the defeat of the measure, and the walls of congress not infrequently resound with denunciation of his tyrannical exercise of a kingly prerogative.

But the fact is it has come to be a more frequent characteristic of a republic than of a modern monarchy. For a king or an emperor to interpose a veto to an act of the popular legislature is really to obstruct the people's will, because he was not chosen by their votes, but inherited his royal power. He must indeed be careful in exercising a veto lest he incur a protest and arouse a feeling dangerous to his dynasty.

The case of the president is very different. The constitution established by the people requires the president to withhold his signature from a bill if he disapproves of it and return it with his objections to the house in which it originated, for the president is quite as much the representative of the people as are the members of the two houses.

Indeed, the whole people of the United States is his constituency, and he therefore speaks and acts for them quite as certainly as the members elected from congressional districts or the senators from the states. He is not exercising a kingly power in a veto. He is acting in a representative capacity for the whole people and is preventing a law that he thinks would work to the detriment of the whole country. On this account the roar of the young lions of congress against a veto never frightens the occupant of the White House.—William Howard Taft in Yale Review.

CHILD BORN WITH HARD COLD

Remarkable Statement of Girl's Mother. How She Suffered Until Six Years Old. How Finally Cured.

Pittsfield, Mass.—“My little girl now six years old was born with a hard cold and very delicate. Every winter she would suffer from croup and poor digestion. Dr. Currier recommended Vinol and within a week she had improved considerably, and her appetite increased so she wanted things to eat that had disgusted her before.

“On the first bottle she gained one and one-half pounds, and now at the age of six Vinol has made her a solid, healthy, good-natured child, and while sick she was so cross and fretful I grew discouraged and was worn out taking care of her.”—Mrs. GEORGE WAGNER, Pittsfield, Mass.

Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, is a wonderful appetizer, and you can see delicate, ailing children improve day by day under its use. It enriches the blood, builds up the body, making pale, delicate children rugged and rosy.

We ask all parents of weak, sickly, delicate children in this vicinity to try Vinol, with the understanding that if it fails to benefit your little ones, we return your money.

RED TAPE NOT TO HINDER THE PLAN

Postoffice Department Will Co-operate With Plan to Mail Cotton to Austrian Hospitals.

NEEDED TO DRESS WOUNDS

Every Man, Woman and Child Can Send an Ounce to Vienna if They Want to Help Project.

(By United Press.)

Washington, Nov. 23.—American humanity will not have its efforts to save human lives interfered with by red tape. Every man, woman and child in the United States who wants to send cotton to Austria, or to any of the other warring nations to be used in dressing soldiers' wounds can do so. And they will have the active co-operation of the postoffice department in their labor.

Postmaster General Albert S. Barleson made this emphatically plain today. Enthusiastic approval of the plan suggested by William C. Shepherd, United Press staff correspondent, with the Austrian army was expressed by the head of the postal service. He stated that apparently some minor postmasters had failed to realize that the department has the facilities to transmit mail to Austria, as well as to other points in the postal union but he insisted that this apprehension will be removed.

“Every postoffice in the United States will accept every package of cotton consigned to Vienna, or to any other place in the European war zone where supplies are needed,” said the postmaster general. The United Press may make it as emphatic and positive as it can that this department will aid in every possible way in getting these packages of cotton through to their destination.

“Of course, every postoffice in the United States will accept these packages of mail. No office has the right to refuse to accept a shipment of cotton on the ground that it is difficult to get it to Vienna. This latter matter is for the responsible officials of the department to work out. I can guarantee that every single package of cotton turned over to the postoffice department consigned to Austria and Germany will be rushed through to Rotterdam and Berne where we will transfer them for continuance to their destination.”

It was pointed out by the postmaster general that shipments to England and France have been going forward expeditiously for some time, except to Northern France.

“The New York foreign mail headquarters are now clear,” Barleson said. “They can accommodate hundreds and thousands of packages of cotton for Europe's suffering men—and an ounce of cotton may save a man's life.

“The postmaster general said that a government vessel would not be needed to carry the packages, for the present contractors are carrying the pouches with dispatch.

Rheumatism and Pneumonia Reaps Harvest in Trenches in Flanders Because of Weather.

ELEMENTS ON BOTH ARMIES

Each Day With Germans in Storm-Swept District Regarded as a Gain For the Allies.

(By United Press.)

London, Nov. 23.—With snow, sleet and cold now prevailing in Flanders rheumatism and pneumonia are claiming more victims than bullets especially in the German ranks.

The terrible grip of the elements is, upon both the allied and the German armies. Skillful cunning in the mining of trenches and sudden night bombardments have largely taken the place of open attacks. Each day that goes by with the Germans still in the wet, storm-swept trenches in the lowlands is regarded as a gain for the allies here but the effect of the fighting under such terrible weather conditions is almost as trying upon the British and French as upon the Germans.

With the advent of snow, the suffering among all combatants has be-

Money spent for the old-style, ready-made cough syrups in bottles holding only 2 to 2½ ounces is very largely wasted, because most of them are composed principally of sugar and water. Yet you have to pay the same price as if it was all medicine. Stop wasting this money. You can make a better cough medicine at home at one-fifth the cost. Merely go to the drug store named below and ask for 2 ounces (50c worth) of Schiffmann's Concentrated Expectorant. Mix this with one pint of granulated sugar and one-half pint of boiling water, which makes a full pint (16 ounces). This new, simple, pleasant remedy is guaranteed to relieve the worst cough or cold. Also excellent for Bronchial Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, Hoarseness and Whooping Cough. One bottle will make enough home-made cough medicine to probably last the whole family the entire winter. Children like it, it is so pleasant to take and it positively contains no chloroform, opium, morphine or other narcotics, as do most cough mixtures. Keep it on hand in case of emergency and stop each cough before it gets a firm hold. come intense. German prisoners have declared it has gone especially hard with untrained levies of youthful volunteers now in their ranks. Many a German charge is made in sheer desperation from cold. It is only the dashes into the open though in the face of a fire that sends scores to death, that the men are able to get warm.

Field hospitals in the allied lines as well as the Germans are swamped with exhausted paralyzed rheumatic sufferers. Water stands knee deep in the trenches. Desperate efforts have been made to drain these defenses. But always there is a fresh flood of rain. The Germans not only suffer from the rain, but from fresh inundations when dykes are opened. The hands of the men become so benumbed with cold that they are scarcely able to hold their rifles. Every effort is made to keep them supplied with warm food, but under existing conditions this is difficult. In the German rank, days have sometimes passed during which some of the men would be unable to obtain their portion of hot soup from the traveling stoves.

ASHES DUMPED IN STREET

Mayor Bebout Says Common Practice Must be Stopped at Once.

Numerous complaints have reached the police about people placing ashes in the streets, and Mayor Bebout states that the practice will have to stop. It is against the law to place the ashes in the streets and as the practice has become general steps will be taken to enforce the law. People having little room on their premises have been dumping the ashes into the street and complaints have been made because the wind scatters them on the ground of other people. The police have been instructed to enforce the law and arrests will be made. Mayor Bebout stated today that only one warning would be given.

219th Reserve Regiment Has Reputation of Pulling off Queer Stunt One Hero Killed

ROBBED GERMAN OFFICERS

This Regiment Also Has Fattest Man in Army, a Private Named Le Goazien Weighing 270

BY WILLIAM PHILIP
 (U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Paris, Nov. 9. (By mail to New York)—The 219th Reserve Infantry Regiment has made a reputation for pulling off queer stunts. One of its heroes, a sergeant who has been killed, won for himself the name of "the hunter of field glasses" on account of the marked attention he paid to German officers carrying field-glasses. Risking his life dozens of times in foolhardy adventures, the sergeant managed to equip nearly every man in his company with German glasses. Just before his last exploit he was asked to describe his plan of campaign and he replied very simply: "We just wriggle on hands and knees as near the 'Bosch' as possible, then we pick up a stone and throw it in the opposite direction so as to make him turn his head. Then we jump on him. That's all!" He met his death in just such an exploit, and died with a smile on his lips.

The 219th boasts the possession of the fattest man in the army, a private named Le Goazien, who in civil life is the director of a big co-operative store. Le Goazien, who is the life and soul of the trenches, weighs about 270 pounds. He says: "I could have been sent home when the mobilization order was published, for I found that all men weighing over 250 were classed with idiots, hunchbacks and cripples, but I preferred to come and fight." The fat private is a great favorite of his commanding officer, an Alsatian Lieut-Colonel Stoul, who always sees that his men get plenty to eat.

Recently Le Goazien returned to the front from a visit to Paris on behalf of his Colonel, with an enormous crayfish and a great hamper of oysters. A well-known chef, now a private in the 219th, prepared the crayfish for the colonel, who divided it into small pieces so that as many of his men as possible could share the dainty with the officers. The eating of the oysters was disturbed twice by the enemy's batteries, and when all was finished, the colonel turned to his guests and said:

"Now, my friends, I want two volunteers to throw the oyster shells and the remains of the crayfish into the German trenches."

The whole party volunteered, and two were chosen, who carried out their queer mission under a hail of lead.

Fashion's Furs

Guaranteed Color -- Wear

Formerly women were unable to procure rich black, "lustre-beaming" Furs which would not "wear off" or shed, regardless of the purchase price. With the advent of however, came the first lustrous, full-color fur, which is guaranteed not to "rub off" from every day usage. And the cost considerably less than Black Fox, Lynx, or Wolf. The top hair is delightfully soft and silky, the air proof muff beds are lined in high quality fabrics and will not shed or fade upon the gloves or "kerchief." These Furs are absolutely moth-proof and styled in the smartest Models. The prices are surprisingly low.

SUIT SETTLED BEFORE TRIAL

By Agreement Maud Dill is Given $400 from Estate of Late Jefferson Dillon Claim

SIMILAR ONE DISMISSED

Jury in First Trial Failed to Agree. Claim of I. O. Harrison Against Estate Dismissed

The first jury trial of the present term of court, which was to have started this morning, did not materialize because of an agreement just before the case was to have started. The case that was to have been heard was the claim of Mrs. Maud Dill against Olin E. Holloway, executor of the estate of Jefferson Dillon, deceased. Mrs. Dill demanded $1,698.

Under the agreement Judge Megee found for Mrs. Dill in the sum of $400 with the costs against the estate with the exception of the witnesses called for today. Under the agreement a similar suit filed by her husband, James W. Dill in which $1,000 was demanded of the Dillon estate, was dismissed. The suit brought by Mrs. Dill was tried once and the jury disagreed.

The case probably would have required all of this week as this is the time occupied by the first trial. Mrs. Dill alleged that the late Mr. Dillon made his home with her and that the money was due her for services rendered. The suit of her husband against the estate was dismissed by agreement and the costs were paid by the estate. Both suits were filed over a year ago.

The claim of Isaac O. Harrison against the estate of Jane Harrison deceased, in which $6,421 was demanded was also dismissed by agreement of the parties and the costs assessed against the estate. The suit was brought against Marthar E. Harrison, executrix of the estate of Jane Harrison.

Judge Megee heard the divorce suit of George Hord against Mary A. Hord and took the case under advisement. The defendant defaulted and Prosecutor Smith appeared for the state. There is some question as to whether Hord has a right to a suit in this county. He was registered and voted in Henry county but the suit was filed here before this time.

Cost of tuberculosis of the State of Indiana in 1913 $32,608,000

It is in an effort to combat this invading army of disease that the commission, aided by thousands of public spirited men and women in all parts of the state, is attempting to raise a war fund through the cheery little Red Cross seal.

Everyone can contribute. In cities where Red Cross seal booths are maintained in the down town sections, the spectacle of newsboys with grimy hands but wearing a cheerful smile, spending pennies for the Christmas stickers, is not an uncommon sight.

"Let all December mail and holiday packages bear the Red Cross Christmas seal" is the slogan in this statewide campaign.

PROPOSES RAISE IN THE GAS RATES

Indiana Gas Light Company Asks Commission For Advance at Tipton and Noblesville.

NO OPPOSITION ONE PLACE

Noblesville, Ind., Nov. 23.—The Indiana Gas Light Company which provides this city and Tipton with natural gas, has filed with the council in each city and also with the Indiana public service commission, notice of its intention to increase its rates the first of the year. The hearing before the commission is set for December 15. The present rate is 50 cents a thousand for the first five thousand feet and a sliding scale is effective from that point.

The company is asking permission to make the charge of 75 cents a thousand for the first five thousand feet, with a minimum charge of 75 cents. The present minimum rate is 50 cents a thousand. The charge of 75 cents a thousand would mean that a majority of the consumers of the two cities would pay that rate for all the gas used, as the average consumer does not use more than five thousand feet a month.

There has been no objection to the proposed increase in this city, but at Tipton Mayor Lewis has asked the people and also the members of the council to go to Indianapolis and enter a protest against the increase. In a statement made public today the company says the present rate is not yielding a return of 2 per cent. on the investment.
